

Sub-Atlantic Houston office has opened it's doors

2008-09-12 12:00:00 by Rons_ROV_Links

Sub-Atlantic is pleased to now announce the formal opening of its new Houston facility. A Grand Opening was held on 20th June 2008, attended by a large contingent of local company representatives, provided a display of the technology and products available from the company.

The new Sales and Service centre offers 5000sq ft of office and workshop space and is resourced to provide full technical and sales support to existing and new clients including extensive stock holding of major electric and hydraulic ROV components.

Bill Radford, General Manager in Houston, commented: "The new facility will offer extensive opportunities to support the market and to grow Sub-Atlantic significantly in the US region. Our location and available space will allow huge growth potential including local manufacture."

<http://www.rovworld.com/modules.php?name=News&file=article&sid=2562>