MCLEAN, VA – Registration is now open for UI 2017, the premier event for the commercial diving and underwater ROV Industry. Taking place at the Morial Convention Center in New Orleans, Louisiana, from February 21-23, UI 2017 brings together the entire industry for three days of industry education, networking and evaluation of the latest and greatest products and services. This year, in addition to compelling educational content, UI 2017 has developed a new format to make the entire show a more meaningful experience by optimizing engagement opportunities for attendees and exhibitors. A new progressive schedule will allow better flow of activities, and more dedicated time to network and connect. New features in the exhibit hall also include the Supplier Solutions Track, The Think Tank and the UI Cafe. For more information about UI 2017 or to register, visit the website at <http://www.underwaterintervention.com/registration17>.
